PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Silvana Martini Schuster

May 2019

Cari amici, dear friends,

Estate, summer, is almost here and our IHSI is looking forward to several traditional activities and new ones. Once again, a number of dedicated volunteers have worked to provide interesting activities for our members to enjoy. Read about them and mark your calendar.

The Memorial Day weekend of course is filled with the activities of the Indianapolis 500 Festival and Race. A group of five of our members will march in the 500 Festival parade carrying the Italian flag. The 500 Race is dedicating this year to Mario Andretti to honor his win at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway 50 years ago. Mario was an Italian immigrant from the Trieste-Istria region. He is considered one of the best drivers of the world and has won most of the prestigious races.

Also in the parade will be Jenna Nosek, a past winner of one of our IHSI scholarship, who was chosen as a 500 princess. Her story follows in the newsletter. We are very proud of you Jenna, auguri, congratulations!

The Holy Rosary Italian Street Festival will once again take place on Friday, June 14 and Saturday, June 15. Volunteers organized by Claudia Heck will be there to sell Italian related items. Volunteers are needed and appreciated, so call Claudia to volunteer some of your time. Claudia's cell 317797-2320

On Saturday late afternoon at the street festival, the very traditional religious Procession of the Statue of the Virgin Mary on Stephen Street to the church will take place. This tradition emphasizes the spiritual aspect of Holy Rosary Church, La Chiesa del Santo Rosario, which was built for the Italian immigrants that settled in the southeast neighborhood.

IHSI NEWS

The IHSI Scholarship Golf Tournament will be on Sunday, June 23 at Sarah Shank Golf Course. Matt Iaria and David Page have organized this ongoing event. We need individual or businesses to sponsor each of the 18 holes for $100 each. So please contact Matt at 317-443-5335 to sponsor one of the holes and to play in the tournament, Grazie. Also, we congratulate the three 2019 winners of the scholarship this year. Their names are in the newsletter.

The Lidia Matticchio Bastianich fundraising event will be on Saturday, August 24. Our IHSI and the PBS station WFYI will welcome to Indianapolis the Italian cookbook author, television cooking show host and restaurateur. Lidia also an Italian immigrant from the Trieste, Istria area, will be filmed at the WFYI studios and she will then be a guest and speak at a reception fundraiser. So save the date for the important Italian American event in our city. More details will be forthcoming.

Again, we remind you to pay your membership fees. Since we operate on a rolling payment schedule, please check when your last payment was and send in your payment by check or electronically. If you are unsure of the date, contact Phil "Skip" Kappes, our membership chairperson, to check the date of your last payment. And urge all your relatives and friends to also join!

Our officers and board members wish all our members and friends a great summer and in anticipation of our patriotic national holiday!

Happy Fourth of July!

40 N. 9th St. Noblesville

Based on the true story of a forgotten hero, the USA Today and #1 Amazon charts bestseller Beneath a Scarlet Sky in the triumphant, epic tale of one young man's incredible courage and resilience during one of history's darkest hours.

Pino Lella wants nothing to do with the war or the Nazi's. He is a normal Italian teenager-obsessed with music, food, and girls—but his days of innocence are numbered. When his family home in Milan is destroyed by Allied bombs, Pino joins an underground railroad helping Jews escape over the Alps, and falls for Anna, a beautiful widow six years his senior.

In attempt to protect him, Pino's parents force him to enlist as a German soldier—a move they think will keep him out of combat. But after Pino is injured, he is recruited at the tender age of eighteen to become the personal driver for Adolf Hitler's left hand in Italy, General Hans Leyers, one of the Third Reich's most mysterious and powerful commanders.

Now with the opportunity to spy for the Allies inside the German High Command, Pino endures the horrors of the war and the Nazi occupation by fighting in secret, his courage bolstered by the love for Anna and for the life he dreams they will one day share.

Soon to be a major television event from Pascal Pictures, starring Tom Holland.

Dear Members of the Italian Heritage Society Community

By Jenna Nosek 2016 Pietro Ferri Scholarship winner

Hello. my name is Jenna Nosek and I am a princess. Well not a real diplomatic princess with any real power, but a 500 Festival Princess in coordination with the Indianapolis 500. Many of you know that the Indy 500 is a celebrated tradition of our state and one of the greatest racing spectacles of all time. It has been an absolute honor and privilege to serve as 500 Festival Princess during these past few months. I would like to share a little bit about myself and the experiences I have gained through my time serving as princess in the moments before the big race in a few short days.

Like I said before, my name is Jenna Nosek. Don't let my Polish last name fool you, I assure you all that I am more true to my Italian roots than my name tells. I graduated high school in 2016 from Scecina Memorial High School receiving a scholarship from the Italian Heritage Society to help me in my education path, which continued at Butler University. Currently, I am a rising senior double majoring in biology and classical studies in ancient Greek and Latin linguistics. While at Butler, I have joined many extracurricular activities including Southeast Asian Student Association, Butler University Dance Marathon for Riley's Hospital for Children, and Bulldogs in the Streets Day of community Service. While I have a wonderful and fulfilling college experience, my best educational experience I have gained thus far has been in undergraduates research in virology. Since joining my research lab, I have gained three internships at Butler University, the University of Pittsburgh and Harvard University School of Medicine. Now after telling you a little about myself, you may have began to ask yourself the following questions.

1. Do you have a life besides school?
2. Do you have free time?
3. Do you ever sleep?

The answer to all these questions is yes shockingly enough. I have found that time management is my best friend. However, what lead me to where I am today is because the people that helped me along the way. Being a 500 Festival Princess is about being engaged with our community as a servant leader and role model. My community has made me strong and caring individual that looks to interact with community to learn more where I come from and who I have the honor of representing. As a member of the Greenfield community, I represent those of a hardworking, rural community that values dedication and honesty. As a member of the Butler community, I strive toward the highest in my achievements. As a member of the Italian Heritage Society, I endeavor to represent the values of our organization and showcase our rich heritage. Becoming 500 Festival Princess has greatly encouraged me to become servant leader in the community. So far I have been able to do outreaches with nursing homes, elementary school kids, and a local fire department. Through the program itself, I have received an additional scholarship along with wonderful experiences with various therapy-based organizations, hospital visits, museum, farms and many other organizations. I have been able to witness firsthand what this racing tradition means to the community I am excited to have this experience because not everyone can say they were a princess. I can't wait to see what this week holds as the race approaches. So ladies and gentlemen, stay tuned!

A TRIBUTE TO MARIA ODORICO 1920-2019

By Carol Faenzi

A couple weeks before Maria's passing at 98 years "young" I received a message from her daughter Rina Piga. She said, "Carol, my mother just finished reading your book and said she remember your grandmother."

I had of course met Maria, but had never had a long conversation with her, plus I had not known about a possible connection with my grandmother, Olga Faenzi.

It felt instinctual, to reply immediately and ask if I might pay a visit to sit with Maria for a while. On a Saturday in April, I drove to la casa della famiglia Piga in Noblesville through torrential rain, feeling excited at what I might learn.

Maria was sitting in a chair near the sofa. Angelo made the traditional espresso and Rina served us a slice of her flaky and delicious apple strudel.

Maria said she met my grandmother at the "Italian club" where friends played cards in Priori Hall at Holy rosary, but that she also knew her from L.S. Ayers where Maria worked as a seamstress in the alteration department and my grandmother was a sales woman in the little girl department.

Angelo added that Sol Petruzzi was Maria's boss and we spoke about the days decades ago when Ayres was a place of glamour and taste.

I realized that I had no idea how Angelo, Rina or Maria made their way to Noblesville, Indiana in the 1960, so I asked.

Once upon a time in Sistiana, (Trieste) near the Slovene border, post World War II. nearby in the town of Duino, there was an American base and Maria worked as a seamstress and there Maria's twin sisters Mira and Vera met their husband, got married and moved to America in Noblesville. Then another sister Polda married a soldier from Russia and emigrated as a refuge in Noblesville. Another sister Valentina married an American soldier whose parents were from Calabria and moved to Mount Vernon, N.Y. Now she live in Arizona, near Fort Huachuca. Maria only brother Giuseppe emigrated in Argentina.

IHSI NEWS

Leaving behind their mother Cristina and father Giuseppe, their sister Maria and her husband Ezio and their only child Caterina(Rina)—these who stayed behind—decided to also follow. But at that time, there was a quota and very long line to be admitted.

Rina said, " We really have to thank President John Kennedy. He saw to it that the law changed so that if you had family already living in the US, you got to move up in line. So that is how we were able to come."

During the waiting time, a young, handsome Italian from Sardinia, was assigned border control duties between Italy and Yugoslavia in the mountain. His name, Angelo Piga.

Rina and Angelo fell in love about the time the Odorico family was given the green light to emigrate. Love letters were exchanged between Noblesville, Indiana and Italy for 5 years before Angelo was permitted to come for a visit. The authorities did not trust that he would return and did not want to issue the paperwork, but a man in love is very persuasive—so the official stamped the paperwork and Angelo arrived in Indiana. He did go back to Italy, but soon returned to marry Rina.

Maria and Rina talked about Rina's grandmother, Cristina and what a determined and independent woman she was. She was well known in the "village" of Noblesville. There is a story of how in her impatience to fix a window, she decided to attempt it herself rather than wait for help and the glass broke, which opened a deep gash in her leg. She managed to apply a tourniquet to stop the bleeding while waiting for an ambulance.

I thought about how brave the women needed to be to create lives for themselves and their families out of the complete unknown, managing everything with faith and grace.

Cristina had waited ten years to reassemble her family in America. And I thought about my own grandmother and her mother, having had to wait ten long years as well.

Time, Patience, Faith.

Angelo and Rina are close now to celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. The walls and shelves of their home are filled with photos of their children and grandchildren.

I thought as I looked at all the faces in the frames—all of this happened because of one unplanned romantic encounter in Italy that could just as easily not have occurred.

After discussion the sad state of affairs our country is in with respect to welcoming immigrant refugees, I noticed that Maria had become quiet. She seemed either distracted or deep in her thought, then suddenly exclaimed, "Well, I'd just like to know who they think are going to pick the tomatoes!!"

She talked about all the "leaders" in Italy she had personally observed, starting with Mussolini. She had a perspective that seemed to me to be a combination of practicality, no nonsense and deeply humanitarian.

I asked Angelo if he would take a photo of the three of us-again an instinctual request as I was about to leave. Maria and I took each other's hand and said goodbye. I thanked her for her stories. She thanked me for mine.

On the drive home, the rain turned to sleet and incredibly, to snow-a completely unexpected turn on the weather. But then, it had been an unexpected afternoon I thought about how Maria and my grandmother-might have been in the elevator together at Ayres and said a few words of greeting in Italian.

My Aunt Joann said that her wedding dress, purchased at Ayres, had been taken to an "Italian lady" in the alterations department. Of course, it had been Maria's fine Italian hands that made it fit perfectly for her.

It was a shock to receive the news just two weeks later, that Maria had fallen and then passed away. It made me feel both sad and grateful.

Within our Italian Heritage Society, there are hundreds of stories like this. We go to events, sit with people at board meetings and there is so much we not know about each other's ancestral journey.

Thank you, Maria, for reminding me of the importance of not only asking, but listening and remembering the stories before it is too late.

Thank you Carol for writing this tribute of my mother!

IHSI NEWS

My mother Maria Odorico was one of the founder and the oldest member of the IHSI. She died at the age of 98. She loved talk to people, very gifted mind and working with her hands as a seamstress, and loved God!

I want to thank you all for the cards, calls, flowers and Masses and for the Board members, past President and members of the Italian Heritage for participation at the funeral Mass, was very well appreciated!

Rina and Angelo Piga and family!

LIVING THE DREAM: WHY ITALIANS HAVE THE IDEA ABOUT RIPOSO

If you are feeling a little sleepy, you are not alone: at present, around two thirds Americans and nearly half of all Brits aren't getting enough rest, due to either disorders or stress and anxiety. If you're able to carve out just half an hour to embrace the Italian tradition of naps, or riposo (some Italians call it "siesta") that you feel not only more refreshed and alert, but that you also experience health benefits. From lower blood pressure to a more positive outlook, can help you live longer and more healthily.

The right way to take a riposo

Scientists at NASA have concluded that the ideal nap time is 26 minutes: any longer and you risk falling into a very deep sleep which can actually make you feel more sluggish during the afternoon, and fall asleep less easily at night time. In order to ensure that you sleep lightly enough to see the benefits—the NASA study found a 34% increase in alertness—experts recommend that you sleep on a sofa or comfortable armchair, and set an alarm. In contrast, at night time you should aim to create an atmosphere to encourage deep sleep, as this is when your body does the majority of its healing and rebuilding.

Helping your health

A new study from Greece has found the afternoon napping can lower blood pressure. This can reduce your risk of heart attacks and other diseases. Naps also help to boost your alertness and motor performance, which might be particularly beneficial if you have physical demanding job, shift work, long drives, or simply the demands of parenthood.

Boosting your brainpower

Scheduling a short nap during the day can also boost your brain's productivity, by helping your brain to process the glucose you get from food. This can give you more mental energy throughout the day. One study found that 30 minutes rests helped to prevent a deterioration in the brain's performance during tasks. Since a nap is far healthier than sipping caffeine or energy drinks, try to find a quiet place during your lunch hour and close your eyes to produce a better afternoon work.

There is no doubt that Mediterranean lifestyle of great food, sunshine and napping is the envy of many countries around the world. For those struggling with sleep, the concept of "riposo" is well worth a try. By keeping your nap short and sweet, you can enjoy long term health benefits and day to day alertness and positivity. Dormi bene!
